Biography

WHO IS CAVEMAN?
He might of travelled to us from the Stone Age, but Joseph Adam Wilson aka Caveman is very much the sound of now.

The Bristolian has spent over 10 years honing his unique take on dubstep, influenced as much by pop and hip-hop as much as dance music. Luring the listener in with saccharine melodies before hitting them over the head with aggressive drops, Wilson's tracks are guaranteed to keep you entertained.
Fans of Skrillex, Avicii and Knife Party won't want to miss Caveman's mammoth beats.

He also takes great pride in running his own independent label, Colour of Sound. They put out multi genre dance releases and put on underground raves showcasing the underdogs of dance music in Bristol, UK.

THE ULTIMATE MISSION
Before Wilson decided 15 years ago (when he picked up a guitar and pair of drumsticks for the first time) that he wanted to pursue a career in music, he had always been passionate about a variety of genres. From mainstream pop to noisecore, Caveman loves to make music.

His goal? To unify music lovers with his multi genre sets and releases, connecting different audiences together through the sounds of something they did not expect to adore.

The producer/label owner said that a long term goal is to move to Los Angeles, California so he can meet plenty of likeminded people and grow his brands together with them.
