Biography

Dre Ngozi is mostly known as a DJ, but she is also a multidisciplinary artist, music producer, host and consultant. Canadian-raised, with Trinidadian and Nigerian roots, Dre is known for her ability to seamlessly flow through genres, from global club, house, bass, afro-house and more. By nine years old, she was recording her own radio show on her Sesame Street tape recorder, DJing family parties and playing classical piano. Music has always been a part of her life. Since then, she's been cultivating her craft as a versatile artist in every way possible, from performance and visual art, to DJing and now producing. Her unique music curation has lead her to headline major events like; The Cavalcade of Lights, TIFF Boombox, AGO Massive and opening for artists like Majid Jordan, Teyana Taylor and The Internet. Dre has provided memorable sets for Boiler Room TV, Redbull Sound Select, NXNE and has rocked the decks alongside heavy-hitters like on a global scale.
